Redmond, Washington

The city of Redmond is located about 15 miles east of Seattle. High-tech industry giants such as Microsoft and Nintendo of America are among the city's major employers. For outdoor fun, nearby Marymoor Park is one of Redmond's most popular places to play. This 500-acre state park has bike trails, tennis courts, soccer fields, baseball fields, a velodrome, rock climbing wall, and a famous 40-acre off-leash dog park. Redmond's weather is mild with few extremes. In the summer it remains about 80 degrees Fahrenheit, and during the winter it rarely falls below freezing. The area is known for frequent light rains, which help promote the growth and beauty of the plentiful evergreen trees.

Marymoor Park, Redmond, WA

Seattle, Washington

Seattle is the largest city in the northwest United States. The area is known for its lakes and mountains, coffee, internet companies, and arts community. Seattle has all the attractions of a large city, with many museums, theaters, shopping districts, and diverse neighborhoods.

One of the most popular locations in the downtown area is the Seattle Center, which includes the Pacific Science Center, the Children's Museum, The Seattle Repertory Theater, The Seattle Opera, Intiman Theater, Pacific Northwest Ballet, The Seattle Children's Theater, and the Experience Music Project, and of course, the world famous Space Needle. Seattle also has numerous cultural centers where people who have moved to the United States can come and meet others from their home country, share their experiences, and find people to answer specific questions.

Discover the beauty of the area in the best way: by taking a ferry to one of the surrounding islands! Try going from the Seattle waterfront to Bainbridge Island, grabbing a cup of coffee, ice cream, or lunch on the island, and then heading back to Seattle. For ice cream on the island, try Mora Iced Creamery, or for coffee and pastry, try Blackbird Bakery. Both are walking distance from the Bainbridge Island ferry dock. Be sure to check the schedule on the Washington State Ferry website.
